Corporation

RightRisk.org

Corporations (C Corporation) are probably the form of business entity which come most readily to mind for most people. They are formed by filing articles of incorporation with the appropriate state officials. The equity owners of a corporation are called shareholders who, in their capacity as shareholders, have only very basic voting rights. They elect the managers of the corporation (called directors), are entitled to vote on most decisions that would require an amendment to the articles of incorporation, and must approve certain fundamental transactions involving a change in structure of the corporation.

ARITASK

Learn more via the recently completed 4-page, 4-color Risk Concepts series, covering seven common forms of business ownership, including the C Corporation.

Several Risk Concepts bulletins covering alternative forms of business structure were recently posted and are available for download at: https://RightRisk.org/riskconcepts.

EXTENSION

⊤xtension